Overview:

The implementation of a School-Wide Positive Behaviour Support Framework is well recognised evidence-based, proactive approach to establishing the behavioural supports and social culture needed for all students in a school to achieve social, emotional and academic success.

Staff members working in secondary schools to establish a School-Wide Positive Behaviour Support Framework often find themselves challenged by the scope of getting a wide range of their peers trained and motivated to begin developing or maintaining a framework in their respective school setting.

During this workshop series, participants will learn the critical steps in developing their school's SWPBS framework, including anticipating and effectively responding to the resistance often encountered when making changes.
